

CHORUS ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Chorus Aviation Inc. (“Chorus”) recognizes the importance of safeguarding the environment, and the responsibility and opportunity it has to make a positive contribution toward a more sustainable future. We recognize that compliance with applicable environmental laws is a baseline requirement and that our core values of listening, collaborating and improving require us to continually find and implement more environmentally-friendly ways to conduct our business and help our customers conduct theirs. Environmental responsibility complements our vision of delivering regional aviation to the world.

In addition to complying with applicable environmental laws, Chorus and its subsidiaries will:

- Conduct periodic internal audits of our operations to verify our compliance with environmental laws;
- Promote efficient use of materials, resources, and our leased assets to minimize waste and fuel emissions;
- Raise environmental awareness and understanding with employees, customers and suppliers to encourage environmental responsibility and sustainability;
- Incorporate environmental considerations in business decisions, including when conducting competitive bid processes for goods and services;
- Encourage our suppliers and partners to share suggestions related to environmental responsibility and sustainability; and
- Monitor progress and review environmental performance on a regular basis to ensure continuous improvement.

The implementation of this policy is an important corporate objective and a responsibility of all employees.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Joe Randell".

Joe Randell
President and Chief Executive Officer